

Welcome to our official website and thank you for your interest in West Feliciana Parish.

Our parish has been described as the jewel of the capital area.

Our uniqueness is attributed to our quaint nationally significant historic home sites, the historic Town of St. Francisville, our top rated schools, an active arts community, hotels and B&Bs, restaurants and other retail establishments.

The John James Audubon Bridge project is a new Mississippi River crossing between Pointe Coupee and West Feliciana parishes due for completion in 2011. The bridge will be the longest cable-stayed bridge in North America.

We have adopted a parish wide comprehensive development plan to protect the beauty of our parish while providing opportunities for residential, commercial and industrial growth. Through the increased use of technology and better management of our resources, I believe West Feliciana Parish is poised to become one of the leading parishes in the state.

If you are a citizen of West Feliciana Parish, we hope our website provides you with the assistance you need to access the information and services your local government provides.

If you are a visitor, we invite you to see our parish in person as a tourist or a company considering doing business here.

Again, I say "welcome" and our government doors are always open to you.

Sincerely,
